Gain the portraiture experience of a lifetime with Mary Whyte!

This workshop includes two days in-person with Mary Whyte. The third day is an opportunity to paint independently without instruction from a live model to practice your acquired portraiture skills. It will be an exceptional three days exploring personal expression.

The first two days begin with Mary's inspirational watercolor and drawing demonstrations from life. Then participants will paint from the models, while receiving one-on-one guidance and instruction from Mary. Enjoy a round table discussion on the first day, and a critique of your work at the end of the second day prior to Mary's departure. Learn Mary's methodology and paint portraiture with emotions.

"Whether we are artists or not, we all seek a life that is filled with "more" - more creative pauses, more colorful relationships, more meaning. Everyone wants the secret to success and happiness. In my classes, I show students that they have to identify what they are feeling in order to paint, that the quality of their production is not primarily about technique or copying. As artists, we paint from our hearts as well as our heads," Mary Whyte.
